FOREWORD.

In the autumn of 1915 the Department of Public Welfare, City of Chicago, published the first edition of the Social Service Directory. Its value and usefulness as a handbook for social and civic workers has been so generally appreciated that the second edition needs no introduction.

The collection and compilation of the material for this edition is the work of Miss Valeria D. McDermott, Director of the Bureau of Information, and Miss Annie Elizabeth Trotter, Investigator, Bureau of Social Surveys, of the staff of the Department of Public Welfare.

A word of appreciation is sincerely extended to Mr. Frederick Rex, Librarian of the Municipal Reference Library of Chicago, for the compilation of Public Agencies—City and County.

Appreciation is also extended to all organizations and individuals who co-operated with the Department in furnishing necessary information.

Such a large number of requests for copies of the Directory has been received that it is impracticable for the Department of Public Welfare to attempt to distribute them free of charge. A complimentary copy will be sent to each agency listed in the Directory and a charge of twenty-five cents will be made for all other copies distributed upon request to agencies or individuals.

LOUISE OSBORNE ROWE,
Commissioner.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Scope.—This Directory includes agencies established for social welfare and not maintained for financial profit, and also civic and philanthropic departments of agencies whose major purposes would not come within this scope. It includes agencies located in Chicago and those located in the vicinity of Chicago, which care for residents of Chicago.

Classification.—Agencies are classified according to their functions and not according to their titles. When an agency has definite departments of work with functions of different kinds, these departments are placed in different classes with cross-references to main entry. If the title of an agency is known, it may be found in the index at the back of the book. If the title is not known but the nature of its work is known, it may be found by consulting the classification at the front of the book.

Names of Officials.—Names of employed executives are given for all organizations having employed officials. Organizations having no employed workers usually give the names of two officials—president and secretary.

Addresses.—The residence or office address of officials follows the names of officials for all organizations which do not have offices. When the agency has an office, the address is placed immediately after the name of the agency. This does not apply to National Agencies where it is not known in every instance if the address supplied is the agency office address or the official's address.

Non-Sectarian.—The majority of agencies under the auspices of religious denominations are non-sectarian in the benefits which they provide. When the benefits are limited by sectarian lines, this is stated. When no statement regarding this is made they are understood to be non-sectarian.

Reg. Bur.—This abbreviation after a statement shows that the agency registers with the Social Service Registration Bureau.

Endorsement.—It must be distinctly understood that this Directory does not pass on the efficiency of any agency included or excluded. To be included does not mean endorsement; to be excluded does not mean condemnation.

Executive officers of all agencies are requested to notify the Bureau of Information of the Department of Public Welfare of any changes in officials, address, telephone, new activities, etc.

When neglect is found, as in cases where there is degradation, drunkenness or immorality, the decision is again a judicial function and the children are removed from the custody of the parents and committed to institutions as a measure of discipline and precaution. In addition to dependent and delinquent children, those found to be habitual truants or incorrigible in school are brought before the Juvenile Court to be committed to the Chicago Parental School. Court calls: Dependent cases 9:30 a. m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday; Pension Cases, 9:30 a. m. Thursday; Truant Cases, 9:30 a. m. Friday; Cases of delinquent girls, 9:30 a. m.
